MEET KAREN STUBBS

Karen Stubbs is an author, speaker, mother to four adult children, and grandmother to five (and counting).

In 2011, she founded Birds on a Wire, a ministry created to equip mothers with practical and biblical truth so they can parent with confidence.

During Karen's years as a young mom, her husband, Greg, served as a fighter pilot in the Navy. During those tough early years, as Greg served overseas during Desert Storm, Karen grew in her reliance on God and gained a heart for mothers.

Karen is passionate about challenging moms to experience motherhood in the way God intended it for both them and their families. Everything Karen does at Birds on a Wire, from the small group curricula she writes, to her Wire Talk podcast and the weekly Tips on Motherhood emails she sends, is aimed toward encouraging and equipping moms for the toughest job they will ever have: raising their children.

POPULAR TALKS

BRAVE // Parent bravely in a culture that encourages you to take the easy way out. This is a series of up to 3 talks, each focused on a female character from the Bible who trusted God and acted in faith in spite of the circumstances surrounding her.

ROOTED // Dig deeply into the Word and Christian community, so that you can "stand firm and let nothing move you." (1 Corinthians 15:58) This is a series of up to 3 talks which will help mothers become firmly rooted in their identity as a child of God.

ACCORDING TO GOD'S DESIGN // This in-depth look at the four temperaments will help mothers understand the unique wiring God has given their children so they can parent with greater wisdom, grace, and understanding.

THE COMPARISON GAME // In today's world of instant connectivity, comparison is a simple swipe away. This can be a stand alone talk, or a 2 part series which shines a light on the destructiveness of comparison and gives moms practical ways to stop playing the game once and for all.
